IMPLICIT OBEDIENCE TO LAW ONLY WILL SAVE MOTORISTS

Preliminary Warning of Police Department to be Followed by Arrests

NO TESTING GROUNDS HERE

Fifth Street and Other Streets Not Set Aside For Exclusive Use of Autoists—Story of Narrow Escape of Aged Woman is Related.

Burgess S. L. Woodward and Chief of Police C. W. Albright are issuing warnings to motorists of Charleroi in order to correct abuses that have heretofore been noticeable in the operation of automobiles and motorcycles. Their warning follows:

Owing to the numerous complaints concerning the driving of automobiles it is wise to offer a word of warning. Motor vehicles are more numerous than ever on the streets, and some operators are still ignorant of the law and are careless. Attention of these is called to the law. They have been spoken to kindly by the burgess and police relative to sounding their horns, yet continue to do that which is illegal, taking the risk of accidents. Henceforth they will be brought before the burgess.

About two weeks ago a prominent man drove from Monessen and started up McKean avenue. He tried to make Fifth street on high gear, paying no attention to his horns, and paying no attention to anyone at the corner. An aged woman was crossing from Henning's corner. Not hearing the horn and not noticing the machine, she came near losing her life. Men and women who stood by complained to the police.

The driver of the car started to make Fifth street again. At Fallowfield avenue his neglect again showed as it did likewise at Washington and Lincoln avenues. This was reckless driving.

Baneful Practice.

We have owners and drivers of cars who make it a habit on Saturday nights from six o'clock until 11 to drive from Ninth up Fallowfield avenue to Third, and down Third to speed down McKean to Seventh and thence up Fallowfield. Then they will cut off a square and continue on the round. They have no special place to go, and when asked the reason for such practice on crowded streets, simply state they have the privilege of the streets. The people who come here shopping should not have their lives endangered by careless automobilists, who should use discretion. It is not necessary to continually drive on congested streets, when there are other points just as good. The practice must be stopped.

The "Red Cross" Sign.

Some citizens have asked the question, "Does the red cross on a doctor's machine give him special privilege in regard to horn, light and speed." The answer is, we fail to see any law granting special privilege to any doctor. The law does not discriminate. The red cross on a car indicates that the car is a doctor's car. But there is reason in all things. A doctor called to attend a patient critically ill or one critically hurt should by all means be on hand promptly. At the same time, he shoud observe the law, blow his horn and not go at an excessive rate of speed, for by so doing he endangers life. The public will not complain if good judgment is used.

Word to Fathers.

There are fathers owning cars who give their sons the privilege of operating them. These boys are under age and the fathers know to permit this privilege is a volation of the law. Attention of fathers has been drawn to the fact. No boy under 16 years of age is allowed to operate a car or any motor vehicle. This practice must be stopped.

No Testing Grounds Here.

Automobile dealers and motorcycle dealers are not to be granted the free use of Fifth street or any other street for the purpose of showing their cars to possible dealers. Let this be distinctly undertood.

There are owners of cars who do not live up to the regulations as to the lighting of machines. This is very dangerous. The law requires that one hour after sundown every car shall have two lights in front and one red light in the rear the rule to be in force if the car is operated all night until one hour before sun rise. The license must be free frfom grease and dirt and parallel with the axle.

In overtaking a vehicle or approaching a crossing a motorist should sound his horn. When overtaking a street car he must not pass on the side from which pasengers are being discharged, or until the last passenger is safely on the curb or the car his started. While the law does not prohibit the driver from passing on the opposite of the street car, he should be very careful. This ruling especially applies at the Fifth street and McKean avenue corner. Drivers should always toot their horns.

Driving While Intoxicated.

No driver is allowed to operate a car while intoxicated. Should this occur he will be apprhended. The fine is $100 and costs and an additional penalty is provided in the revocation of his license for the year and until such time as he is adjudged capable of operating a car.

What we want is that each operator of a motor vehicle on our streets particularly in the congested districts, use good judgment and observe the law as to sounding his horn and as to excessive speeding. By using his own good judgment a motorist will save himself trouble and embarrassment by preventing accidents.

Word to Motorcyclists.

We have complaints about recklessness by motorcyclists, it being maintained that they travel at a rate of speed not conductive to safety to pedestrians. They are to sound signals in overtaking vehicles and in turning corners. They must pass street cars other than on the side where they are receiving or discharging passengers, and must sound their horns. Motorcyclists must not use Fifth street as a testing ground. License plates must be conspicuously displayed.

Boys Playing on Streets.

A word of warning to parents; Warning should be extended to boys who play on streets that they not needlessly endanger themselves. They should be careful where they play. Watchfulness on the part of the operator of any kind of a car won't always save boys, hence care should be taken.

We trust these injunctions will be implicitly obeyed.

S. L. Woodward, Burgess.
C. W. Albright, Chief of Police.

MONESSEN NOT READY FOR THIRD CLASS CITY

Proposal to Put on City Airs Gets Setback at Neighboring Town---Vote for is 116 and Vote Against, 866

By a vote of 866 to 116 the proposal to adopt the third class city form of government was defeated at a special election at Monessen Tuesday.

The special election movemnt was started by a few in the face of decided opposition from the civic bodies and the citizens generally. A petition bearing 100 signatures was presented to the borough council according to law some time ago, and following this preparation was made for the election. The petition was signed by a number who did not understand the third class city plan, and they voted against it.

The election is said to have cost the borough of Monessen fully $200, with the only benefit being that of an understanding now of the public sentiment on the matter.

NEVER RECOVERS FROM EFFECTS OF ILLNESS

Miss Mary Susanna McCullough Dies At Her Home in Monongahela From Attack of Grip—Was Only 33 Years of Age.

Never entirely recovering from an attack of grip which she suffered about a month ago, Miss Mary Susanna McCullough, aged 33 years the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James McCullough of Pleasant street, Monongahela, died at her home Tuesday morning. Death came as the result of exhausetion and a general weakened condition.

In the same house in which she died, Miss McCullough was born, March 15, 1882. She was educated in the Monongahela public schools. Just before her graduation from the high school she suffered an attack of typhoid fever, the effects of which had much to do with her ill health during the remainder of her life.

She was a member of the Roman Catholic church of the Transfiguration and a diligent worker in all branches of church life. She was an officer in the L. C. B. A. and a member of the Young Ladies' Sodality. For many years she served as organist of the church.

Besides her parents, two sisters survive: Miss Anna McCullough at home and Mrs. E. C. Shryrock of Bridgeville.

The funeral services will be held at the Church of the Transfiguration and solemn high mass will be observed Friday morning at 10 o'clock, in charge of Rev. Walsh, pastor of the church assisted by Rev. John Angel of Marianna, and Rev. McBurney of Finleyville. Interment will be in St. Mary's cemetery.

Card Of Thanks.

For the many kindnesses shown us during the illness and death of our darling daughter, Marjorie, we wish publicly to express our gratitude. We remember all and specially those who sent flowers.

THREE DELEGATIONS ATTEND TABERNACLE MEETING TUESDAY

Monessen Night, Old Soldiers Night and Drum Corps Night

PATRIOTIC SONGS ARE SUNG

Leader Rockwell Conducts Much Enjoyed Song Service—Evangelist Preaches on Theme. "One Step to Life" to Big Audience.

Monessen night, old soldiers night and drum corps night was observed in one at the Fifth street tabernacle Tuesday night. when visiting delegations occupied the central sections. A crowd of about 200 people from the Monessen Baptist and Christian churches was in attendance. From Charleroi a number of old soldiers, and the Charleroi Veteran Guard Drum Corps occupied places of honor. The evangelist spoke on the subject, "One Step to Light."

The service was well under way when the old soldiers and drum corps arrived. The drum corps marched in first, followed by the soldiers. Prolonged cheers followed their entrance, and hardly had they got seated until the Monessen delegation began to string in. Led by Song Leader G. P. Rockwell. patriotic songs were sung. The special songs were a solo by H. J. Bray, one by Paul S. Wight, asolo by Mrs. Roland Todd, a duet by Miss Georgene Parsons and Mr. Rockwell and a selection by a sextet composed of Mrs. A. G. Lewis, Mrs. Roland Todd, Miss Isabella Dorbritz, Miss Georgene Parsons. Charles Clerihue and Russell Carl. Rev. W. S. Carson, pastor of the Monessen Baptist church offered prayer. Other ministers who had places on the platform were Rev. E. E. Hibler of Belle Vernon and Rev. J. B. Swain of Monessen.

Tonight will be Belle Vernon night at the tabernacle, and it is expected a big delegation will be present from the town across the river.

Prayer meetings have been announced for tomorrow morning at the following homes: Mrs. John Martin, 16 Shovel row; Mrs. Harry Stech Sixth street and Meadow avenue; Mrs. James Myers. 727 Fallowfield avenue. and Mrs. William Zoelker, Lockview.

One Step to Light.

The evangelist took his subject Tuesday from the story of Paul before Agrippa. He read the entire story showing how Paul defended his position and how at last Agrippa said. "Almost thou persuadest me to be a Christian." Taking this statement of Agrippa's as his text the evangelist said in part:

Agrippa stopped at "almost." You say 'why did he stop there?' He was thinking of what Rome would think if he took this step. He was thinking what the people in court would say and thus he stopped right here where so many of you people here tonight have stopped and where you are even standing now Agrippa was convinced that the thing was right but he didn't have the backbone to step out for what was right. Some of you people here have been convinced in these meetings that you should come out and accept Christ but the lack of nerve to do the thing that you know is right, is keeping you from it.

CHEERFULNESS.

Henry Clews, the New York banker and financier, and incidentally, it might be remarked a doctor of philosophy, is a most agreeable and optimistic chap. He sends out weekly statements of the financial situation and where others have lost hope, he always finds something of promise. This week he says confidence is slowly reviving. He said that last year, but just about that time something unexpected happened. Clews' letter, which is written from an inside viewpoint is in part as follows:

Many industrial activities will resume with the coming of spring. Building operations are already on a rising scale. The steel trade is expanding slowly but surely, and is now running on a 60 per cent basis. Unusual quantities of manufactured steel are being exported; also large quantities of war materials. American ship owners are enjoying a positive boom, such as they have not witnessed in years. Implement makers are beginning to feel effects of the prosperity enjoyed by American farmers, which has done so much to offset industrial depression in other parts of the country. Our cotton industry is working under better conditions, thanks to lessened uncertainty regarding raw materials and labor. Our railroads, however, are still seriously hampered by diminished revenues and increased expenditures, so that the dividend outlook is still a problem for weakened lines. Nevertheless, it would seem as if the worst concerning the railroads had already been experienced; and a very important factor regarding their future is the steady subsidence of popular agitation against railroads and other large corporations. The disposition to injure capital by ill-advised legislation and regulation is distinctly on the wane. Not only at Washington, but in State and municipal governments, a more rational and just spirit is developing, that is sure to encourage a slow but steady revival of confidence among business leaders as well as investors. The labor situation here is better than in any other country of the world at this time. American labor is free from the curse of war. The proportion of unemployed may be large, especially in great cities, whither the shiftless always drift in the winter. But the number of jobless is much smaller than might have been expected in view of so much depression, because war has stopped immigration and induced a large number of aliens to return to fight for their native lands across the sea. This spring few if any aliens will come to the United States from Europe; and after the war is over labor will be in such large demand for reconstruction purposes to as restrain and sudden influx to this side. Public attention has been largely concentrated upon the new form of blockade adopted by Great Britain and her Allies. Thus far this movement has not seriously aggravated the export situation but the outlook is full of rather serious possibilities. Yet, so long as a patient and considerate spirit is maintained between our Government and the Allies, the danger of trouble will be reduced to a minimum. It is fortunate that Congress is not in session. Our President is weighted with tremendous responsibilities, in the meeting of which he merits the support and not the criticism of the public in his present policy towards the belligerents; which while maintaining true neutrality is also faithfully safeguarding legitimate American interests.

UNCLE SAM AND INEFFICIENCY

When William H. Taft was president he put upon some of the evils of government, which if corrected would save millions. It was unfortunate that he was compelled to vacate the premises to another just at the time when he was entering his period of greatest usefulness.

Mr. Taft instituted a thorough and far-reaching investigation into the governmental operations in order to ascertain where there was system and where there was not, where there was efficiency and where there was not and where improvements might be made to save the nation money. He found antiquated methods obtained in many departments, and discovered a woeful waste due to this existing evil. A great lack of system in doing things, a source of needless extravagance, was discovered.

It was not given Mr. Taft to make the changes he felt were necessary, and reforms have simply been held off by the Democratic administration. Instead of qualifying the civil service rules in effect and adding to as a means of attaining efficiency, the Democrats have subtracted.

Nine-tenths of the postoffices in the country have been put under different management. Perhaps the Democrats can't be blamed for this, for the system was in effect before they were, but they have surely lost a good opportunity to perform a noble service for the country in not applying civil service rules throughout. The postoffice department has suffered and the country is footing a bill of waste.

Efficiency can only be obtained through making merit and not political preferment the basis for appointment. But we shall expect to wait until the Republican party gets in force to see the change.

PICKED UP IN PASSING

In the April American Magazine James Montgomery Flagg the wit and artist, does an amusing piece in words and pictures, satirizing visitors and visiting. Following is an extract:

"A little dinner party has been arranged by Polly to entertain the Macs, and it is time to dress. Then remarks like these will be heard:

"'No, somebody's in there!' 'Come back, their door is open!' 'Gee, I wonder if he's ever coming out!' 'Are you wearing a dinner jacket, Paul?' 'No, I was putting on "soup and fish," but if you didn't bring anything but a jacket I'll put mine on!'

"Of course Mac forgot his studs and dress tie, and equally of course Mrs. Mac would want the maid to bring a lump of ice to pink up her cheeks with and at the same time take her frock down to the kitchen and press it while she was also setting the table.

"When Polly had smudged her soul with the remark that she didn't mind at all that Mrs. Mac had knocked over the Copenhagen powder bowl she had brought carefully from Paris the year before it was as you were all going into the drawing-room.

"The other guests arrive: 'I've heard Paul speak of you so often I feel as if I knew you!' 'I've wanted to bring you two together for a long while!' 'I'll divide this last cocktail with you!' 'Oh, no really, I couldn't' (Two cocktails are poured.) 'Would you mind getting me a scarf, dear?' 'I'll close this window!' 'Oh, don't on my account!' 'When was this taken?' 'S awfully good of him!' 'I can stand New York for three months in the year!' Do you think so? I thought it was a sight! I just washed it!' 'Why don't we have maids that look like that, dear?' 'I guess you know why Steve!' 'We talk deadfully, but we lead such pure lives!'

"Dinner is announced. And because Polly has turned handsprings and cartwheels around the markets trying to provide a specially extravagant feast Mrs. Mac passes everything up, and calls for a glass of hot water. You might just as well slap a hostess in the ear with a wet dish towel—she wouldn't mind it as much."

A preacher trying to illustrate the intensity of the gross darkness mentioned in the scripture said:

"My friends, you've been out on a dark night when you could hardly see your hand before you, and you've seen how pitch dark it is. Well, pitchy darkness be dark and my friends, you know what a gross is. If not, I'll tell you. A gross is twelve dozen, now you'll understand that the darkness that covered the people for it was 144 times pitchy dark.

Asking Too Much of the Bank.

The officials of the English savings bank department, a correspondent writes, occasionally find themselves regarded as a kind of universal purveyors. A depositor sent his bank book with this modest request: "There are some little things I should like to get from London, and one is some natural leaf tobacco. I should be glad if you will send two ounces and charge to my account. It is only to be obtained in the largest tobacco stores." We failed to comply with his wishes, whereupon he wrote an indignant letter to the comptroller of our department.—Manchester Guardian.

Languages of India.

One hundred and fifty different languages are spoken in India, most of them unwritten, and this fact frequently leads to trouble in the courts of that oriental country. Strangely enough, Indians frequently drift into that capital who can find no one able to understand their vernacular. Neither the court nor the court interpreters understand some of the litigants and witnesses in legal cases.

Sedlam.

The word "bedlam" is a corruption of the word "Bethlehem" and originated as a synonym for chaos at the time when the house of Bethlehem, occupied by a sisterhood of London, became an insane asylum. The treatment of the insane in the early part of the sixteenth century was not well understood, and, according to the theories then prevalent, it was necessary to frighten the patient out of his lunacy. All sorts of awful expedients were resorted to, among them "surprise floors," which slipped from under the feet; "surprise baths" and floggings at the periods of most severe illness; hence the name "bedlam," the result of incorrect spelling possibly, came easily to stand for awful things.

MOTHER OF SCHOOL GIRL

Tells How Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Restored Her Daughter's Health.

Plover, Iowa.—"From a small child my 13 year old daughter had female weakness. I spoke to three doctors about it and they did not help her any. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound had been of great benefit to me, so I decided to have her give it a trial. She has taken five bottles of the Vegetable Compound according to directions on the bottle and she is cured of this trouble. She was all run down when she started taking the Compound and her periods did not come right. She was so poorly and weak that I often had to help her dress herself, but now she is regular and is growing strong and healthy."—Mrs. MARTIN HELVIG, Plover, Iowa.

Hundreds of such letters expressing gratitude for the good Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has accomplished are constantly being received, proving the reliability of this grand old remedy.

If you are ill do not drag along and continue to suffer day in and day out but at once take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, a woman's remedy for woman's ills.

If you want special advice write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential) Lynn, Mass. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.

NEIGHBORLY ADVICE

Freely Given by a Charleroi Citizen

When one has suffered tortures from a bad back and found relief from the aches and pains, that persons advice is of untold value to friends and neighbors. The following neighborly advice comes from a Charleroi resident.

Mrs. D. F. Worthington, 914 McKean avenue, Charleroi, says: "I was troubled by backache for years. The pains were so intense it made me sick all over. In the morning when I tried to get up, I was worse. Whenever I stooped, a sharp pain darted through me and I could hardly catch my breath. Often it was just as though a knife was being stuck into me. I was tired all the time. I had rheumatic pains throughout my body. My feet became swollen. Two boxes of Doan's Kidney Pills, procured at Piper Bros., Drug store relieved me of all symptoms of the trouble. I now take Doan's Kidney Pills once or twice a year as a kidney tonic and they always help me."

BUSY KEEPING PARTY PLEDGES

Republican Leaders Do Not Break Faith With People.

STAND BY PLATFORM, IS MOTTO

Passage of Suffrage Amendment, Introduction of Workman's Compensation Bill by Chairman Crow and Agitation For Better Highways and a Fair Child Labor Law Indicate Square Deal to the Electorate.

Harrisburg, March 13.—Simultaneously with the approval by the state senate of the resolution proposing the equal suffrage amendment to the constitution, a workman's compensation law was introduced in both branches of the legislature by Senator Crow and Representative William H. Wilson. The following day Republican leaders took up the question of giving the people better highways, and then came a hearing on four child labor bills, with a strong indication that a law will be placed upon the statute books calling for reasonable, but nevertheless effective, regulations governing the employment of minors.

These four events prove that the Republican party is determined to redeem every pledge made in the platform on which Senator Penrose, Governor Brumbaugh and the other nominees ran last fall. Already conclusive proof is at hand that State Chairman Crow wants every plank of the platform lived up to, and he is unwilling that the legislature adjourn until the people are given what was promised them during the campaign of 1914.

REP. WILLIAM D. WALTON,
Lawrence County Legislator, Who Introduced Third Class City Civil Service Bill.

The passage of the suffrage amendment was a disagreeable surprise to the enemies of the Republican party, who have been claiming that at no time have the leaders been disposed to put this question up to the people. Throughout the campaign it was frequently asserted from the rostrum and in the press that the amendment was marked for defeat in the senate, and that those desiring suffrage would have to begin over again two years from now.

Pledged Its Submission.

But Chairman Crow insisted that the amendment pass, not because he favored it, but for the reason that the party he represented had pledged its submission to the voters. The Republican chairman was the first recognized by the Lieutenant Governor when the amendment was reached in the senate. Senator Crow asked for its passage to make good the party pledge.

"Two years ago," said Crow, "I opposed this resolution with all the force at my command. Later, the Republican party was committed to the proposition of presenting the woman suffrage question to the people of the state. On that platform all the Republican party's senate candidates and its assembly candidates were elected.

"To what extent hold-over members of the senate, elected in 1912, are under obligation to support the resolution has been a matter of discussion. At least they are obligated to the extent of being members of a party that gave the pledge. As to what should be the attitude of those elected on the platform of last year, there can be no question.

"The question before us is: Shall the party pledge be kept? It is as much an obligation of the party to pass this resolution as to fulfill any other platform pledge."

Caring For Employes.

Senator Crow is equally as determined that the toilers of Pennsylvania be given the benefit of a workman's compensation act, one that will adequately take care of the employe without ruining the establishment where employes secure a living.

"The Republican party is pledged to a compensation law just as strongly as it was pledged to the suffrage amendment," said Senator Crow recently in discussing the platform. "We are going to enact a law that will meet with the approval of a majority of employes in Pennsylvania and which will not be fought to any extent by the employers. The latter—that is most of them—feel that the tendency of the times in in the direction of such legislation, and they are not opposed to Pennsylvania falling in line.

"As for good roads and reasonable child labor laws, the Republican party will see that the people get both of these demands. Of course the appropriations for roads must be liberal and we must not permit a situation like two years ago, when the highway commissioner was asked to perform miracles in the way of building and repairing roads without funds in hand.

Fair to All Sides.

"There is such a conflict of opinion regarding the child labor bills before the legislature that it would be impossible to predict the outcome. All I can say is that the Republican party will do its share towards enacting a law that will be fair to all sides. I find that the manufacturers are agreeable to go half way in giving the people what they desire concerning the regulation of working hours for children. This should make a just child labor bill a certainty.

"I am not one of those who believes that because a man happens to be an employer of labor he is anxious to squeeze the life's blood out of his employes. There is no conspiracy on foot to crush women and children, and the more the situation is studied the more evident it becomes that employers are as anxious to remedy any defects as are the women who make up child labor associations in this and adjoining states.

"Over half a billion dollars of capital is represented in the manufacturing establishments of Pennsylvania. The investing of so vast an amount of money enables thousands and thousands of people to earn a living, and after all that is what they desire more than anything else. Especially at this time, when as a result of Democratic tariff tinkering we are suffering a depression, the people of Pennsylvania want work far more than they want sweeping regulations of work hours. To use almost the exact language of the Republican state platform, no child should be permitted to labor under conditions which will injure his usefulness as a future citizen. At the same time the law we enact must not hamper industries to such an extent that they will be unable to employ any boy or girl. This would be doing a terrible injustice to an army of poor people all over Pennsylvania."

Election Bills In.

The election bills approved by the Republican state committee have been introduced in the senate, and their rapid passage through both branches is expected. The nature of these proposed changes has already been explained in this correspondence.

What is, perhaps, the most important bill in the lot would prevent the substitution of names on a ticket after the primary. As the law stands at present a nominee may retire from the ticket and the committee representing the particular political party to which he belongs is privileged to "appoint" a candidate for the vacancy. In this way many weak Democratic and so-called reform tickets are bolstered up so as to injure Republican candidates regularly nominated by the people.

Republicans are unanimous for this measure, for it is felt that its passage will be a decided obstacle in future to the schemes of collusion and fraud hatched by men who mask as reformers.

It will be impossible under this act for a candidate to withdraw from a ticket. A vacancy can only occur in case of the death of the nominee. Even if a candidate announces publicly that he does not want the support of the electorate his name will remain on the ballot.

Another bill wipes out the non-partisan method of electing supreme, superior, common pleas and orphans' court judges; also councilman in second and third class cities.

Judges' Expenditures.

Senator Vare, of Philadelphia, presented a bill which is designed to prevent the expenditure of large sums of money to either elect or defeat candidates for the judiciary. This bill was prepared by Attorney General Brown and will have the backing of the Brumbaugh administration.

Experience in recent state-wide campaigns for the nomination and election of judges showed that some candidates were beneficiaries of large campaign funds, or at least there were heavy expenditures made in their behalf.

Judges George B. Orlady and George B. Head, of the superior court, are candidates for re-election this year. President Judge Charles E. Rice does not aspire to re-election.

The Vare bill would make it unlawful for any person, committee or organization to contribute or expend any money or other valuable things for election expenses or to promote the nomination of any candidate for any judicial office or to defeat or prevent the nomination of any such candidate. It is provided, however, that contributions may be made direct to any candidate for nomination for judicial offices.

The Walton bill providing for civil service for policemen, firemen and those connected with the engineering and electrical departments of third class cities is through the house, but its prospects in the senate are not specially promising.

Senator Clark's bill to repeal the cold storage act of 1913, which, it is claimed, has operated against farmers, consumers and produce men, passed the senate by a vote of 32 to 7. It is now in the house.

A movement is on foot to impound the money colected by the anthracite tax law for the purpose of highway improvements. This will be vigorously fought by the anthracite region legislators. They say that instead of receiving only one-half the fund, as the law now directs, the entire tax should go to the counties that produce the coal. The suggestion that the state take all the money will bring to Harrisburg an army of protesting citizens from the northeastern counties.

Wireless In the Amazon Region.

In the Jusmara region of the Amazon the natives use a crude system of wireless telegraphy, which, it is claimed, has been in operation for thousands of years. The transmitter found by an explorer was a hollowed trunk of a tree suspended from a horizontal pole stretched between two stumps. Inside the transmitter had been arranged much like a violin, and it was explained that when the instrument was struck smartly with a small rubber hammer a vibration was created that carried for miles over the hills. The receiver is very similar to the transmitter, except that it is placed on a hardwood platform, the base of the hollowed tree trunk being grounded on the platform. When the message is struck in the neighboring village, sometimes thirty miles away, this receiver catches the vibrations, causing a jerky, singing sound. The sound system, it is said, can be read by the members of the tribe, and in this way news of victories and other happenings are told throughout the countryside.—Argonaut.

Washing Day In Sicily.

The Sicilians have the reputation of not washing themselves overfrequently, but if they are remiss in this respect they more than make up for it by washing their garments—washing, in fact, being a perennial occupation among the women. The songs of the women folk as they scrub the cloth of their husbands and children oust the doors of their homes, if living a city, or in some brook or running stream, if living in the country, are a noticeable feature of lower class Sicilian life.

The long spikes on the prickly pear leaves and aloe plants make splendid natural pegs on which to dry the clothes, and in all the rural districts you will see them thus utilized, but n they do not happen to be sufficiently handy the clothes are often stretched out upon the mountain side to dry. The occupation and recreation of most of the poorer women may be summed up in three words—washing and gossip.—Wide World Magazine.

The Star Alcyone.

The size of the star Alcyone and its distance from the sun are both unknown and, so far as can now be seen, must remain unknown. It has no parallax large enough to be measured by the most accurate modern micrometrical methods.

That is, take a large telescope with you, go to Alcyone, turn, look back this way, then the entire diameter of the orbit of the earth around the sun, a huge ellipse, 185,765,000 miles in diameter, if a bright line in space so that it could be seen, would appear to be so small that the telemicrometer could not measure it. Not knowing the distance, the size cannot be known.

But, judging from its light when compared with that of other suns whose distances are fairly well known, it must be colossal many times larger than our medium sized star, the sun.—New York American.

Art Criticism.

It is related that almost the last work Sir Edwin Landseer was engaged on was a life sized picture of Nell Gwyn passing through an archway on a white palfrey. This picture, in which the horse alone was finished, was bought by one of the Rothschild family and given to Sir John Millais to complete. One morning a celebrated art critic called on the painter and was much impressed by this work. "Ah, to be sure," he said, going up close and examining a deerhound in the foreground of the picture; "how easily one can recognize Landseer's dogs! Wonderful, isn't it?" "Yes; it is wonderful!" said Sir John, lighting his pipe. "I finished painting that dog yesterday morning and have done the whole of it myself."

German Army Shoes.

Leather used for German army shoes is the result of many tests. It is rather dry compared with American vegetable tanned leather. However, it is made dry so that the oxidizing oils and fats will not rot the leather fiber during the many years that it may be held in storage. Every soldier when he gets his army shoes also gets a can of shoe dressing, with which he dresses his shoes. This keeps them pliable and water resisting. The boots are crimped. They have only two seams. They are practically water tight. The thread used for stitching them is hand waxed. The absence of blackings of any nature tends to save the life of the boot. It rejects the sun's rays too.—Hide and Leather.

Argentina's Natural Bridge.

In Argentina there is a natural bridge that is one of the most wonderful in the world. It spans the Rio Mendoza and is known as the Inca bridge. It is the work of nature and not, as was once popularly supposed, of the Incas. The road on which it occurs was probably a highway made by the Peruvian Incas, who took advantage of the phenomenon by leading their road over this natural viaduct.

A Prosperous Scheme.

"Doing any good?"

"Yep. Got a business man's athletic class. Tuition, $5 a year."

"Well, those rates are attractive, but too low to pay you."

"You don't get the idea. They all drop out in about two weeks. Then I start another class."—Judge.
